Information in regard to the import of blood samples from pet animals into Switzerland

To whom it may concern

The Swiss Federal Food Safety and Veterinary Office (FSVO) is the central competent authority in Switzerland for border veterinary controls of animal products.

We hereby confirm that blood samples from pet animals bound for the Swiss Rabies Center in Berne can be imported into Switzerland without need for any further documents or control procedures at the Swiss border (neither veterinary certificates nor written import permissions are required).

A proforma invoice and the request form for analysis, both provided on the homepage of the Swiss Rabies Center, are sufficient.

Yours sincerely

Erik Froehlicher, DVM
Head Import from third countries
